

I ASK Franklin Templeton, JP Morgan Chase, Capital Group/American Funds, Fidelity & Vanguard: DIVEST FROM COMPANIES THAT HELP FUND THE DARFUR GENOCIDE.

- Franklin Templeton and the other funds named above are the US-based mutual fund companies with the largest holdings of PetroChina, a Chinese oil company. PetroChina, through its parent company, CNPC, is one of the largest sources of revenue of the Government of Sudan, thereby helping to fund the genocide in Darfur.
- In addition to PetroChina, other companies helping to fund the genocide include Alstrom (France), ONGC (India), Petronas (Malaysia)
- As many as 400,000 men, women, and children have died as a result of the Sudanese government's brutal campaign, and millions have fled their homes. Divestment is a strategy that helps build economic pressure for the swift end of the genocide.
